

Mobile Climbing Wall Briefing Sheet

The Mobile Climbing Wall can be used a wide range of events to include motivational exercises, training and development events and corporate challenges, the following is intended to give you an idea of the tower and what it entails from an event organisers perspective.

The Mobile Climbing Wall is transported on an integral trailer system and erected via a hydraulic system - if outdoors, the trailer remains attached for stability whereas if indoors, the trailer can be detached to reduce the floor space required. On average the Tower requires 30 minutes to have it positioned, erected and ready to use

The dimensions of the Mobile Climbing Wall are as follows

Height - 7.5 metres

Base - 2.7 metres x 2.7 metres (excluding trailer)

The trailer is 9 metres long by 2.7 metres wide but as mentioned, if indoors this can be removed.

The space required around the Tower is primarily for a climbing area to the front and sides of the Tower of minimum of 2 metres in width, for climbers to climb and descend freely. The space required to brief / equip climbers to the side or rear of the wall can depend on the potential volume of participants and any queuing that this may require. One other issue to bring into consideration with regard to crowd management is that of people stopping to view.

The Mobile Climbing Wall has four climbing routes and can accommodate up to four climbers simultaneously with a range of difficulty on each route giving a total of sixteen climbing routes / options on the tower.

The Mobile Climbing Wall contains a state of the art safety system called Redpoint which is an automated belay, clip and climb system that allows climbers to enjoy the climbing experience in complete safety and comfort. However a team of instructors shall be on hand to assist climbers in the use of the personal safety equipment, harnesses, helmets etc and the Redpoint system as well as specific coaching in climbing itself.

The activity including the Tower and all of the PPE is suitable for budding climbers from 3 years of age upwards with no upper limit.
